EXPANDED BIO

Rachel Anne Ridge is an author, artist, and creative life coach in Texas. She discovered a love for art while tole-painting Christmas gifts one year, and inadvertently launched a new career. In 1999, she took her paint brushes and began creating murals and faux finishes in the booming Dallas-Ft. Worth area. When the homegrown business began taking off, her husband Tom joined her. Together, they expanded it into a large-scale corporate art, graphic design, way-finding, and custom artwork company. Along the way, they raised three children and adopted a stray donkey who inspired her journey in unexpected and often hilarious ways.

An engaging speaker who delights audiences with her funny and poignant keynotes, Rachel's presentations touch the heart and inspire people to live "like someone left the gate open." Her sweet spot is story-telling with a twist--to bring home unforgettable ideas and life-changing practical advice. Rachel is the creator of The Donkey Principle™ which helps people and organizations get unstuck by harnessing the power of their own possibilities.

Flash, The Homeless Donkey Who Taught Me About Life, Faith, and Second Chances, was published in 2015 to rave reviews, and was optioned as a movie. Rachel followed up with a children's book, and Walking with Henry. She lives in Texas with her husband Tom and now, two donkeys. They have three grown children and five grandchildren.
